THOUSANDS GATHER ON FIELD OF GETTYSBURG TO CELEBRATE ITS FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Civil war veterans from North and South planned far ahead to meet each other on the battlefield of Gettysburg July 1 to 4, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the famous battle. The interest of the whole country was aroused in the great reunion. Thousands of persons planned to see the memorial sights of the field, such as the many monuments and the Book of Honor. The name of General Meade, the hero of the fight, was in the mind of every veteran who fought on those bloody days in July, 1863.

HEAT A MENACE AT GETTYSBURG

Fifty Thousand Veterans in a Camp Intended to Hold Only Forty Thousand—One-Quarter of the Total Number Present Represented by the Men From Dixie—Young Compliments Men of the North.

Gettysburg, Pa., July 2.—Major Normoyle, second in command to Brigadier General Liggett, estimated that more than 50,000 men of the blue and gray are quartered in a camp intended to hold 40,000. Through persistent efforts, however, every man has been cared for as well as possible. Thousands have been given quarters in the big tent and hundreds of others in smaller tents used in the daytime for speechmaking and reunions. No officer cared to estimate the number of southerners here. There are more than 3,000 from Virginia here and it is probable that one-quarter of the total number is represented by the men from Dixie.

General Bennett H. Young, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, made an address to thousands of veterans. He took as his keynote the conviction of each side in the great struggle that it fought for a principle which it believed was the truth. One of his opening statements was that the northern soldiers deserved more credit for the promulgation and successful realization of the present great reunion, which he characterized as the greatest movement of its kind in the world.

Fully 30,000 of the veterans devoted the day to the 3,000 known and unknown dead in the National cemetery on the ridge, and immediately back of the camp. The headstone of every grave was decorated with crossed American and Pennsylvania flags. No veteran found the grave of his company mate without uncovering his head and falling miserably in his attempt to hold back the tears.

Heat a Menace.

The heat has been a fearsome menace to the camp and has been the cause of two more fatalities. The physicians, however, explained for the benefit of the folks at home that the heat fatalities would probably have been largely increased if the veterans had all been in houses at home instead of being on the free hilltops.

Deaths during the day were: Christopher Yates, 78, of Lathrop, Pa., and Otto L. Stamm, 74, of Almond, N. Y., found dead in his tent. This tent city now has an inhabitation of 50,000 people and the death rate of two is therefore extremely low.

Although the army doctors were not given to talking about such matters, it is evident that many of the old soldiers would have been better off if they had not undertaken the trip here. Two veterans have been found in camp apparently without friends, who are totally blind, and they are quartered in hospital tents. Micazga Weiss, a New York veteran, who was taken to one army station, announced that he is 112 years old. The average man is about 70, the doctors believe, and there are hundreds of men who are over 80. The long journey many of them have taken, the fact that they arrived here thoroughly tired out and the hardships that they have undergone in addition to the heat wave have made the sick lists fill up.

WELL! AT LAST THEY'VE HIT IT FINALLY AGREE ON TARIFF BILL

Senate Democrats In Caucus Settle Contested Points.

REVERSE INSURANCE TAX VOTE

Decide to Exempt Earnings of Mutual Life Companies From Payment of Income Tax—Stamp Tax of a Tenth of One Cent Per Pound Placed On All Trading In Cotton Futures. Tobacco Amendment.

Washington, July 2.—Senate Democrats approached a final agreement on the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill in caucus, when they made the following decisions on important contested points:

Mutual life insurance companies were exempted from payment of income tax on premiums returned to policyholders in the form of dividends.

A stamp tax of 1-10 of 1 cent per pound was agreed to for all trading in cotton futures, the tax to be refunded where cotton is actually delivered.

An agreement was reached for a vote on the Hitchcock amendment proposing a restrictive tax on tobacco production, to prevent monopoly.

The decision to exempt earnings of mutual life insurance came at the end of a long debate. The caucus, by a vote of 13 to 11, Monday overturned the recommendation of the finance committee Democrats that such exemption be made. On a reconsideration, asked by Senator Lewis, the caucus reversed the action and voted to uphold the committee.

Senator Overman tried vainly to have the tax on cotton futures cut down from the one-tenth of 1 cent basis proposed by Senator Clark to one-twentieth of 1 cent.

Senator Hitchcock's fight to obtain the adoption of his tobacco amendment, which embraced the views set forth some time ago by Attorney General McReynolds for "curbing the growth of the trust," was carried on until adjournment. Members of the finance committee decided against the amendment, which would impose a heavy tax on production above a certain figure.

So-called Labor Lobby at Washington Also Will Be Touched Upon—Kirby and Parry, Former Heads of the N. A. M., Abandon Trip and Will Testify—Late Developments in the Mulhall Affair.

Washington, July 2.—The officers of the National Association of Manufacturers will introduce some letters on their own score when they appear before the senate investigating committee. The subpoena which the senate committee has served on James A. Emery, the legal representative of the association here, calls for all correspondence in his office relating to the manufacturers' association.

It was learned that the letter which the manufacturers will produce include some by Colonel Martin M. Mulhall, which the colonel has not incorporated in his $10,000 batch. Some of these letters will, it is said, throw light on the so-called labor lobby at Washington and the men who are supposed to represent it.

The correspondence will also show, it is stated, the score of letters written by Colonel Mulhall urging his re-employment by the N. A. M. subsequent to his dismissal from their service in which he was making numerous promises and covert threats of the course he would pursue in the event that the association refused his further engagement.

There was a rapid interchange of telegrams between Washington and San Francisco relative to the serving of subpoenas upon John Kirby, Jr., and D. M. Parry, former presidents of the manufacturers' association, who were about to sail for Australia. The result was that they abandoned their trip and have headed for Washington.

Kirby gave out a signed statement at San Francisco to the effect that the Mulhall affair had been engineered in an attempt to destroy the manufacturers' association.

Inquiry into the charges of Colonel Mulhall by the senatorial investigators of the lobby will not be begun until the week beginning July 14. This is quite contrary to what had been the general impression when the Mulhall charges were first given publicity, but Chairman Overman made the announcement that the sugar and wool lobbies engaged in fighting out the tariff question before congress.

Stewart McCoy, Aged 30, Residing One Mile West of Bloomingburg. While Running from the Storm's Fury is Struck by Lightning.

His Wife and Small Children Witness Awful Death

Unfortunate Man Received Full Force of Heavy Bolt. Every Vestige of Clothing Burned Off. Body Bodily Burned and Discolored.

Horses and Houses Struck in Other Parts of County

Instantly killed by a terrific thunderbolt as he was running across the open harvest field, watched by his wife and children, was the sad fate that overtook Stewart McCoy, aged 30, Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

Mr. McCoy who lives on the Myers, or Wilson farm, one mile east of Bloomingburg, was out in the harvest field with other employees of Horace Wilson, and when the black cloud rolled up and the storm approached they left their work and started for home.

Mr. McCoy was running across the open wheat field in an effort to reach his home before the rain drenched him. Mrs. McCoy was standing in the doorway watching him, and one of his companions also had his eyes upon him, when the heavens were rent asunder by a vivid flash of lightning which fell upon and about the man, completely enveloping him.

Immediately after the terrific report of thunder his wife discovered that he had fallen, and braving the storm she ran at top speed to where her husband lay and was crying and almost beside herself with grief when some of the farm hands arrived a few moments later.

Death had been instantaneous, and nearly every thread of clothing was torn from his body, and a great livid spot across his chest indicated where the full force of the bolt struck him. His chest was literally cooked to the bone, and other spots badly discolored indicated that his body had received the entire bolt.

His hat was destroyed and all of his clothing was in shreds. His shoes were ripped to pieces and the tacks in them melted. Buttons on his clothing were also melted.

He was carried to his home, the trip being made through the pouring rain with the lurid flash of lightning and heavy cannonading of thunder making the scene one of utmost terror to those whose sad mission it was to carry the dead man to the house where four small children, heart-broken over the untimely death of their father, were sobbing out their sorrow. Ora Miller and Glen Wilson helped carry the remains home. They had been working with him in the harvest field a few minutes before.

Coroner L. P. Howell was summoned and viewed the remains, finding the body in the condition above described.

QUEEN OF THE OCEAN

Passengers' Opinion of the Great Liner Imperator.

Plymouth, England, July 2.—"She is the queen of the ocean," was the enthusiastic and unanimous verdict of the 695 saloon passengers of the new express leviathan Imperator, which arrived at Plymouth last night. It was twilight when, from the thick sea mist outside Plymouth breakwater, the great Hamburg-American liner glided into clear view within the harbor. Before the big vessel dropped her anchor scores of the most powerful searchlights, constituting part of the harbor defenses, played on her in a dazzling semi-circle. This, combined with the wonderful illumination of the ship herself, made a beautiful sea picture.

Turners On a Mountain Climb. Denver, Colo., July 2.—A trip to the summit of Mount Evans, 14,000 feet, was the objective of a large party of Turners that set out from Denver. After leaving the railroad the party will travel on foot with pack train. The tour will occupy eight days.

Sever farm two miles west of this city, nearly met death while plowing corn during the storm Tuesday afternoon, when the team he was driving was instantly killed, both horses falling dead in their tracks when a thunderbolt darted down from the clouds. Pearson was badly stunned and a hole was torn through his hat. He soon recovered and now shows little effect of his close call from death. Small marks were found on the horses where the bolt had evidently penetrated their bodies.

HOUSES STRUCK.
A number of houses throughout the county were struck by lightning during the storm, but so far as known no serious damage was done, and no one was seriously injured, although a number were slightly stunned for a few moments.

PHONES BURNED OUT.
A great many telephones were burned out in the Bloomington and Jeffersonville neighborhoods, and the wires connecting this city with Bloomington and Jeffersonville were burned out and communication with the latter town was not restored until Wednesday forenoon. Telephones in the Bloomington vicinity suffered the most. A number of phones in the local exchange were burned out.

RELIEF FROM HEAT.
Following the storm, which came up while the mercury was hovering around the hundred mark, the mercury dropped rapidly, and the evening was the most pleasant during the past eight or ten days.

WHEAT LITTLE DAMAGED.
No great damage to the wheat crop is reported, as the wind accompanying the storm was not heavy, and the standing wheat was not thrown to the ground.

Causes Contractor Add Hays Some Annoyance, But Jury Finds in His Favor on Gregg Street Case.

After considering the evidence in the case from four o'clock to ten o'clock Tuesday evening, the jury sitting in the case of Addison Hays against the city of Washington, returned a verdict in the sum of $150 in favor of the plaintiff.

The case was over the Gregg street improvement, where Contractor Addison Hays performed the work, and where some $233 was withheld because of alleged failure to comply with the terms of the contract. Hays was represented by C. E. Baughn, and Rankin and Rankin represented the city.

A sensation was sprung during the trial when Attorney Harry M. Rankin forced the plaintiff, under cross-examination, to admit that the car numbers and dates of shipment of certain cars of stone were the same as those in accounts which had been presented to the county and had been paid for and accounts which the defendant Hays had signed as approved while a member of the Board of Commissioners.

Attorney Rankin offered evidence tending to prove his claim that 14 carloads of stone used on Gregg street as itemized and identified by car number, date and weights, and that which had been shipped to "Addison Hays, Commissioner," and had been paid for by Fayette county were one and the same.

He secured an admission that instead of 1400 cubic yards of stone he had placed on the street, that the amount really was 952 cubic yards, or 448 yards short of what the specifications called for.

Attorney Rankin, who is also City Solicitor, has announced his intention of asking for a new trial or carrying the case to the Court of Appeals.

PICNIC SUPPER

ENJOYED BY CLERKS.

The clerks of Craig Brothers' store had a royal good time and a picnic supper that would be hard to beat Tuesday night.

The supper was to have been at Lost Bridge but the thunder storm interfered with original plans, and the party was indebted to the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Craig for the use of the immense veranda of their home.

The Craig family assisted in making the supper a success; pictures were taken and a variety of diversions included in the evening's fun.

TRIAL POSTPONED UNTIL TOMORROW

When the case of Albert (Rabbit) Smith came up for hearing before Mayor Creath, of Bloomington, Wednesday morning, Smith asked for more time, stating that he was not ready and wanted certain witnesses subpoenaed to testify in his behalf.

His request for more time was granted and Thursday afternoon was the time set when the charges against him will be heard.

There are two charges against Smith, and he has been in trouble before, being regarded as a smooth individual.

Upon a former occasion when a detective was in the city, Smith claims to have sold the detective a bottle of coffee for whiskey, and then giving the man the laugh.

The trial of Henry Brown was taken up at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon. There are two charges against Brown and the evidence is said to be damaging.

The Law and Order committee say that charges have not yet been filed with Governor Cox against Mayor Smith because the Chief Executive of the state is now at Gettysburg.

TWO SUSPECTS ARE RELEASED

The two men suspected of being implicated in the burglary of Scott Brothers' store of Bloomington, were released from custody late Tuesday afternoon, and lost no time in shaking the dust of the town from their feet.

No evidence that would warrant holding the men longer was introduced, and the right men will probably never be apprehended.

SHOULD WE CELEBRATE ON THE 2D OF JULY?

On the 2d of July, 1776, John Adams, then one of the representatives of Massachusetts in the Continental congress, wrote to his wife, Abigail.

"Yesterday the greatest question was decided which was ever debated in America, and a greater perhaps never was nor will be decided among men."

In a second letter, written the same day, he said:

"But the day is past. The 2d of July will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations, from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward, forevermore."

When the resolution was taken up on the 2d all the states, except New York, voted to accept it. Thus on the 2d of July, 1776, the independence of the thirteen united colonies from the throne of Great Britain was definitely decided upon. The 2d and not the 4th may be called the true date of the separation. We could with propriety celebrate the Fourth two days earlier. That the participants in the work considered the 2d as the true date is shown by the letters written by John Adams, quoted at the beginning of this article. The popular fancy, however, seized upon the Fourth, the date of acceptance of Jefferson's more dramatic declaration of the reasons for the separation, as the proper day to celebrate. The debate upon the document was continued until the afternoon of the Fourth and, says Jefferson, might have run on interminably at any other season of the year.

But the weather was oppressively warm, and the hall in which the deputies sat was close to the stable. "whence the hungry flies swarmed thick and fierce, alighting on the legs of the delegates and biting hard through their thin silk stockings. Treason was preferable to discomfort," and at last the delegates were brought to such a state of mind as to agree to the Declaration without further amendment.

It is a mistake to suppose that the document was signed by the delegates on that day. It is improbable that any signing was done save by John Hancock, the president of the congress, and Charles Thomson, the secretary.—Paul Leland Haworth in Harper's Magazine.

Small Boys Used "Squibs."
In the early days of the Fourth of July celebration the small boys had to content themselves with "squibs," or small balls of moistened powder, which fizzed and gave out sparks in the darkness; with the rapid waving of firebrands, the sight of glowing bonfires, and perhaps a limited participation in the "fun of fire"—namely, the tossing of fire balls made of tow saturated with tar or turpentine into the air, an amusement in which many men and boys frequently took part.

The Mary Hale Bible class spent an enjoyable social afternoon with their fancy work on the lawn of the home of Mrs. J. T. Tuttle Tuesday afternoon. The cool shade of the big trees was refreshing and a dainty summer collation was served.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was a resume of her trip to Atlanta, Ga., accompanying Mr. Tuttle, commissioner to the General Assembly of the U. S. A. Mrs. Tuttle attended the meetings of the Home Missionary Society, U. S. A., held in connection with the General Assembly.

Dr. R. A. Bryson, of Indianapolis, Ind., was an out-of-town guest.

A jolly little picnic supper at the home of Miss Emily Tanzey tonight is being enjoyed by Misses Charlotte and Nina Dahl, Pauline Pine, Helen Jones, Nina Bonham, Prudence Culhan, Marie Lanum.

The home of Miss Mabel Briggs was the scene of a merry gathering Tuesday night, when the choir of the First Baptist church entertained in honor of Miss Merle Jones, who leaves soon for her new home in Marion.

There were two interesting contests, Mrs. Howard Hicks winning the prize in an advertising contest, and Rev. A. W. West in a "President's Contest," the names of past presidents of the United States being deciphered from jumbled letters. The act of the prize winner being a Canadian provoked no little amusement.

A delicious lunch was served and the evening was altogether one of much pleasure.

LOOK FOR COMET

A large inhabited comet will pass directly through Washington C. H. at about 10:15 o'clock on the morning of July 5th, and citizens are warned to be on the look out for it. The appearance of the comet at this time is not announced on the regular Astronomical Schedule for 1913, but the comet already has passed through several cities from which startling reports have been received concerning its appearance. It has been positively stated that the comet is inhabited by most unusual beings with little round heads, enormous eyes and leather hands. In color these "comets" resemble the comet itself, which appears to be a light battleship gray streaked with red. The most extraordinary feature of the comet is that it seems to propel itself by windmills or wheels and instead of passing through the air it moves along the surface of the earth. Several towns which have been swept by the tail of the comet report that the air has been filled with a disagreeable odor, closely resembling that of burnt gasoline.

Citizens need not feel alarmed as the above is a description of the "N. A. S. Comet," a racing car built by the students of the National Auto School of Cincinnati, Ohio, on a tour through the state. The Comet is now headed for Columbus where it will attend the race, July 4th.

SHEEP TO MOW LAWNS.

Rockefeller Finds Novel Way to Reduce His Expenses.

Tarrytown, N. Y.—John D. Rockefeller is still economizing. While playing golf with some friends in the early spring one said:

"Mr. Rockefeller, why don't you buy about 400 sheep and let them feed on your lawns, and in that way you would save the cost of cutting the grass, and besides the sheep would keep it in condition always?"

"How much would they cost?" he asked.

"About $0 each, making an expenditure of about $2,400," said the friend.

"Oh, that's too much," answered Mr. Rockefeller.

The idea did not drop with Mr. Rockefeller, however, and he went home and started to figure the cost of his big motor lawn mowers and the cost of the sheep and found out that his friend's suggestion was an economical one, so he placed an order for 400 Southdown sheep. The other day the last load was taken to Pocantico Hills by automobile, and the sheep now are eating their fill of grass on Mr. Rockefeller's estate, at the same time saving him money.

Stop the Strikes

The good people of Cincinnati are much aroused over the conditions brought about by the war between the manufacturers and dealers in ice and their employees.

During the awful weather of the past two weeks the city, so far as the general consumer is concerned, has been without ice.

The sufferings of the poor and the middle classes has been terrible. During the torrid weather that has prevailed in this section, old people, invalids and children, especially infants, have suffered severely.

Conditions prevailing are but another illustration of the fact long known that the greatest sufferers from these labor disputes are those who are in no way concerned with the outcome of the struggle and were not directly or indirectly the cause or contributors to the cause which brought on the dispute.

When the public is made to suffer in winter from coal strikes and in the summer from strikes which cut off the supply of ice, when transportation facilities are tied up by reason of disputes between capital and labor, the public is irresistibly driven to the conclusion that, being the chief sufferer, it should have a hand in preventing a recurrence of conditions or a hand in settling these disputes.

The poor little consumer who has had so much to bear of late years, the victim, the innocent bystander who bears the brunt of all the damaging missiles hurled by the warring factions at each other, has begun to insist on his rights and to make an outcry which has been heeded to a certain extent.

It does seem that it is about time that the sufferings of the consumer should enter into the equation in these labor wars.

The people are the source of power in this land and it is ridiculous that they should stand idly and helplessly by while a war in which they are the only sufferers is waged.

In all of these disputes there is some one at fault and to say that people should permit conditions which make these periods of suffering a part of their lives is idle.

It is time to organize and set in motion a public force which will prevent injury to the public by reason of disputes between individuals.

To do so would be neither revolutionary nor difficult.

The people can and should stop these strikes, at least all those which effect life itself.

More Like Business

The action of the City Council in withholding payments from the water company until necessary improvements long promised by the company are well under way is nothing more than the exercise of sound business judgment.

Because the water company has for some time been receiving money from the city while its promised improvement of facilities for protecting the city against fire, was delayed, is no reason why that course should be continued indefinitely.

If the water company is several notches short of promised water pressure necessary for fire protection, and it is claimed that it is, then the city should wait until a real genuine start is made to better conditions before the money is handed over at stated intervals in big chunks.

The money which the city pays to the water company comes out of the pockets of the people and they demand that good business judgment be exercised in paying it out.

Where individuals are dealing the men who will continue to give up their money on promises are few and far between.

They may do it once, but if they do it more than once and lose out then it's their fault.

The City Council it seems is getting down to the rules in vogue in private business, paying for what is delivered and holding up until promises materialize.

Life Is a Comprehensive Business

By ERNEST FOX NICHOLS, President of Dartmouth College

A MAN'S FAMILY AND FRIENDS ARE HIS STOCKHOLDERS WHO HOLD LARGE HUMAN INVESTMENTS OF SYMPATHY AND HOPE IN HIS CAREER. THEIRS WOULD BE HAPPINESS OR SORROW AS HE SUCCEEDED OR FAILED. THE DIRECTORS OF HIS LIFE SHOULD BE CHARACTER, INTEGRITY AND CONSCIENCE.

Life is A COMPREHENSIVE BUSINESS, a business in which large provision must be made for many activities and for ample breathing spaces.

Business so called, business in the narrower sense of production and trade, is but a small part of the great BUSINESS OF LIVING, living a whole, well rounded life. He who thinks otherwise has only mistaken the means for the end; mistaken a part for the whole, a not uncommon error.

The great end of living is to BECOME A STRONG, A SYMMETRICAL, A WELL BALANCED man or woman, with no empty nor neglected rooms in the great house in which his Creator has given man to dwell.

Poetry For Today

AROUND THE CORNER.

Just around the corner there is music soft and sweet,
The sunbeams on a holiday go dancing down the street.
You see a path where blossoms bend to greet you on your way
Through the misty lanes of April to the splendors of the May,
Though the sullen shadows linger you can sing a little song
While you're trudging on your journey, which will not be very long.
Just around the corner skies are smiling warm and blue—
The corner of Contentment street and Lazy avenue.

There the butterflies are neighbors and the honey bees are friends
And the wind is sighing comfort where the weeping willow bends.
The clumsy tortoise plods along, not caring where he may roam,
And when he's scared or weary, shuts his shell and calls it home.
The grasses wave in billows like the flowing of the sea,
And the birds are busy nesting, way up yonder in the tree;
They are just around the corner, 'mongst the perfumes and the dew.
The corner of Contentment street and Lazy avenue.

New York Board of Health Adopts a Drastic Resolution.

New York, July 2.—The board of health, in a resolution adopted at its meeting, practically excludes from New York city any person or persons from treating patients with the so-called Friedmann vaccine. The resolution forbids the treatment of anybody with the vaccine who had not been injected with the stuff before May 30 of this year, and provides strict lines under which such as had been treated prior to that date shall be treated hereafter. By this resolution not only is the Friedmann Institute in this city practically put out of business, but so are such persons who profess to have the Friedmann vaccine.

Grouped around the Governor were women of the suffrage lobby, which has been called "the best lobby in the United States."

Rembrandt's "Bathsheba" recently sold for the fabulous sum of 1,000,000 francs to the Rothschilds has an interesting history. Painted in 1633, it was sold three years later for 550 francs. In 1743 it was sold at The Hague to Count de Brühl and fetched 800 francs. In 1830 an Englishman purchased the work for 2,957 francs. Again and again it figured in art sales at constantly ascending figures until in 1912 at a sale in the galleries of George Petit it reached the figure of 1,000,000 francs.

Alex. Stevens, just made general superintendent of the railway mail service of the U. S., has had years of practical experience at the work. Mr. Stevens organized Alaska's first mail in 1898 and it was under his direction that California mail facilities were restored after the earthquake.

DIES OF TETANUS A PECULIAR CASE

Dread of an operation for ingrowing toe nails and her efforts to conceal from her parents the condition of her feet by not removing her shoes and stockings for three months, cost the life of Alice Oats, 29-year-old daughter of George Oats of near South Charleston. She died of lock-jaw.

When a physician was called to attend the girl and cut her shoes and stockings from her feet, he found her feet and legs caked with dirt and a mass of sores. The ingrowing toe nails had forced their way deep into the flesh, and her system was thoroughly poisoned.

"I was afraid of an operation when the folks discovered I had ingrowing toe nails, and haven't had my shoes off for three months," she told the doctor before her jaws became set with the lock jaw.

Soon after her condition was discovered she was critically ill with tetanus and soon died.

NEW PRESIDENT OF MIAMI UNIVERSITY

Prof. Raymond Mollyneaux Hughes.

The above is an excellent picture of Prof. Raymond Mollyneaux Hughes, recently elected president of Miami University at Oxford, Ohio. He graduated from Miami university in the class of 1893, taking class honors.

He has been an instructor in many schools, obtaining recognition for his ability to handle every problem he met. He has received a flattering offer from the Chicago University, but refused it. As Dean of the College of Liberal Arts he attained nation-wide fame.

Prof. Hughes succeeds Dr. Guy Potter Benton, who resigned from the presidency of the institution. Professors and students immediately asked that Prof. Hughes be chosen.

He is distinctly a college man who has made a special study of college administration, and his success has been attained by developing the highest efficiency in every phase of college life. He has inaugurated many new movements at Miami and maintains a very close supervision over the student activity.

DAYS OF MORO PIRATES ENDED

Jolo Tribesmen Must Be Good or Be Exterminated.

LOATH TO GIVE UP WAYS.

Warlike Inhabitants of the Philippines
Object to Any Form of Government.
Many Killed in the Most Recent Revolt—Have Always Given Trouble.

Washington.—Once more has the stubborn, untamed Moro had a forcible demonstration of the fact that where Uncle Sam sets his foot law and order must prevail. Under the command of Brigadier General John Pershing, U. S. A., governor of the Moro provinces of the Philippines and commander of the military department of Mindanao, the American forces have dislodged a rebellious band from their fortified position and scattered them through the jungle.

General Pershing characterized the fighting which ended in the dislodg-lands." Yet the American forces came out of the struggle with less than a score as the total of killed and wounded, while the Moros lost a great many of their number in the successive engagements covering a three days' period. Only their flight into the recesses of the hills, where they make their homes, saved them from extermination. Had they not persisted, like the fanatics that they are, in throwing themselves upon the weapons of the American troops scores of the Moros lost in the fighting would now be comparatively safe with their brethren in the woods.

The Moros have always given trouble to every one who has ever had anything to do with them. They are not now and never have been rebels in the political sense of the word. They do not object to the American government as such, but rather to the idea of any government. They stubbornly refuse to recognize any ruler or any law except that of their own sweet will.

The recent trouble grew out of the decision reached by General Pershing that the Moro must bow to civilization sufficiently to give up his arms. In the nearly two years since this decision was reached all the Moros in the other islands have brought in their arms, received compensation for them and turned into the paths of peace. If all of them have not taken up industry they have at least gone as far as their ancient traditions will permit toward earning a living by other methods than by piracy and robbery.

Continued repudiation of pledges and breaking of promises by the Moros negotiating with General Pershing were followed by the fortification of an extinct volcano near Bagsag, Jolo. General Pershing then determined that in justice to the Moros who had peacefully given up their arms it was necessary to crush out the opposition in Jolo. Accordingly he assembled his forces and when all was ready stormed and took the Moro positions.

The Moros who participated in the last scuffle with Uncle Sam are really the standpatters of their generation. They cannot forget the days when to be a Moro was to be superior to all law, either that of the natives or that of the white man. They cannot forget the days of their piracy, when scores of Moro sailboats ravaged the shipping of the entire Philippine archipelago. Much less can they accept the dictum of the white man, who says that the Moro must henceforth stay at home and pursue the weary round of agriculture or fishing, or, at least, if he must wander, that the rifle, the bolo, the crescent, the barong and the spear must be left behind. This Moro has none but profound contempt for those of his tribesmen who have quietly submitted to the new order of things.

VOILE GOWN FOR FOURTH OF JULY

This charming maid is suitably arrayed for the Fourth of July outing or for the porch or garden party. Her gown is of white voile, the bodice comparatively tight fitting and adorned with pin tucks as well as the bands of cluny insertion, which also embellish the skirt. Her hat is a wide drooping affair of panama straw, with a narrow binding on the edge and with the round crown encircled with a ruching of velvet ribbon and spray of flowers. The dainty parasol of Dresden silk harmonizes with the colors of the hat.
